Dr. Farley was surgeon to the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital and consultant in ophthalmology to the Holy Name Hospital at Teaneck, New Jersey. He was a Fellow of the American Medical Association and a member of the County and State Medical Societies.

FRY, HENRY JACOB, Ph.D.: Westport, Connecticut; born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, May 2, 1892; died in Westport, Connecticut, August 17, 1941; received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University in 1925; elected an Associate Fellow of the Academy November 6, 1930.

Dr. Fry was professor of biology at the Washington Square College, New York University, from 1930 to 1933, having been appointed as instructor in 1923. From 1931 to 1938, he was on the faculty of the New School for Medical Research.

JOACHIM, HENRY: 1111 Park Avenue, New York City, and 871 Park Place, Brooklyn, New York; born in Brooklyn, April 16, 1883; died in New York City, August 18, 1941; graduated in medicine from Cornell University Medical College in 1904; elected a Fellow of the Academy, November 2, 1922.

Dr. Joachim was associate physician on the staff of the Jewish Hospital, 1911-18; attending physician and clinical professor of medicine to the Long Island College Hospital, 1918-31; and head of the medical department at the Greenpoint Hospital, 1918-22. Since 1922, Dr. Joachim was chief of the medical staff of the Israel Zion Hospital and Beth Moses Hospital, and since 1933 he was medical director of the Cumberland Hospital and the Jewish Sanitarium and Hospital for Chronic Diseases. He was also consulting physician to the Sydenham Hospital.

Dr. Joachim was a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, a Fellow of the American Medical Association and a member of the County and State Medical Societies. He was a former president of the Kings County Medical Society and the Williamsburg and New Utrecht Medical Societies.

KAST, LUDWIG: 525 Park Avenue, New York City; born in Vienna, Austria, March 2, 1877; died in New York City, August 14, 1941; graduated in medicine from the Medical Faculty of the University of Prague, Austria, in 1908; received the degree of Sc.D. from Syracuse University in 1934; elected a Fellow of the Academy, April 7, 1910.

Dr. Kast came to the United States in 1906, after postgraduate work in Vienna, Prague, Munich, London and Berlin, to continue his research in the physiology and pathology of digestion at the Rockefeller Institute.

In 1907, he was appointed instructor in medicine at the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital and was made assistant professor in 1909, and full professor in 1914. He became a member of the Board of Directors of the institution in 1912, and since 1914 had continued as an active Trustee of the school, specializing in teaching and research in problems of internal medicine and education. He also contributed to many medical publications on problems of experimental and clinical medicine.

In 1909, he was appointed secretary to the national committee of the United States of the International Committee on Post-graduate Medical Education, a position which he held until 1914 and in which he was largely instrumental in establishing many contacts with European medical universities for exchange of American teachers and students. His research in internal medicine and medical education soon made him widely known and in 1930 he became the President of the Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation for medical research.

Dr. Kast was a Fellow of the American Medical Association, a member of the American Roentgen Ray Society, the American Gastroenterological Association, the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, the New York Pathological Society, the Harvey Society and the County and State Medical Societies. He was a lieutenant-colonel in the United States Medical Officers Reserve Corps and in honor of his medical researches had been decorated by the Belgian Order of the Crown and the Palme Academique of the French Academy.

Dr. Kast, who first proposed the establishment of the Graduate Fortnight of the Academy, which was instituted in 1928, continued to give inspiration to this enterprise until the time of his death. In honor of the founder of these Fortnights, the opening lecture of the Fortnight is designated the "Ludwig Kast Lecture."
